Key Risks

5. What are the key risks associated with this product ?

General Risks

Market Risk	Market risk refers to the possibility that an investment will lose value because of a general decline in financial markets, due to economic, political and/or other factors, which will result in a decline in the fund's NAV.
Liquidity Risk	Liquidity risk refers to the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the Fund holds assets that are illiquid, or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the Fund will be negatively affected when it has to sell such assets at unfavourable prices.
Inflation Risk	This is the risk that investors' investment in the unit trust fund may not grow or generate income at a rate that keeps pace with inflation. This would reduce investors' purchasing power even though the value of the investment in monetary terms has increased.
Manager's Risk	This risk refers to the day-to-day management of the fund by the manager which will impact the performance of the fund. For example, investment decisions undertaken by the manager, as a result of an incorrect view of the market or any non-compliance with internal policies, investment mandate, the deed, relevant law or guidelines due to factors such as human error or weaknesses in operational process and systems, may adversely affect the performance of the fund.
Credit and Default Risk	Credit risk relates to the creditworthiness of the issuers of the debt instruments and their expected ability to make timely payment of interest and/or principal. Any adverse situations faced by the issuer may impact the value as well as liquidity of the debt instrument. In the case of rated debt instruments, this may lead to a credit downgrade. Default risk relates to the risk that an issuer of a debt instrument either defaulting on payments or failing to make payments in a timely manner which will in turn adversely affect the value of the debt instruments. This could adversely affect the value of the fund.
Loan Financing Risk	This risk occurs when investors take a loan/financing to finance their investment. The inherent risk of investing with borrowed money includes investors being unable to service the loan repayments. In the event units are used as collateral, an investor may be required to top-up the investors' existing instalment if the prices of units fall below a certain level due to market conditions. Failing which, the units may be sold at a lower net asset value per unit as compared to the net asset value per unit at the point of purchase towards settling the loan.

Specific Risks

Default Risk	Default risk arises when an issuer is unable to service any periodic obligations, e.g. profits payments and/or pay the principle amount when due. In such cases, investors will suffer significant losses. This risk can be mitigated by investing in Sukuk, carrying a minimum rating of AA3 by RAM or AA- MARC or its equivalent by any other recognised credit rating agencies or a minimum short-term credit rating of P1 by RAM or MARC-1 by MARC or its equivalent by any other recognised credit rating agency. This risk is also mitigated by credit analysis conducted by the Manager to determine the issuer's ability to service promised payments.
Interest Rate Risk	Sukuk investors are exposed to interest rate risk. Changes in the level of interest rates will cause valuation for sukuk to change inversely. This risk can largely be eliminated by holding the Shariah-compliant instruments until maturity, thereby locking in price and yields. However, whether the Fund will hold any Shariah-compliant instrument until maturity will depend on the actual and expected changes in interest rates. The Fund also manages interest rate risk by considering each Shariah-compliant instrument's sensitivity to interest changes as measured by its duration. When interest rates are expected to increase, the Fund would switch to Shariah-compliant instruments with lower duration that are less sensitive to interest rate changes. (Note: Interest rate is a general economic indicator that will have the impact on the management of the Fund regardless of whether it is a Shariah-compliant fund or otherwise. It does not in any way suggest that this Fund will invest in conventional financial instrument. All investments carried out for this Fund are in accordance with Shariah requirements.)
Counterparty Risk	Counterparty risk refers to the risk that any Islamic financial institution that ARSCMF may deal with, under certain circumstances, fails to perform its obligations when due. This will result in the Fund to experience significant losses.

Notes: Different types of unit trust funds carry different levels of risk. Some are higher in risk than others. Ask about the risks before investing in a fund. Make sure you know what your fund is investing in.
